

1) Title of the Practice: “Quotation of the Day”

2) Objectives of the Practice:

- a) To inculcate moral and cultural values among the students.
- b) To keep the students away from negative influences of media-dominated modern life.
- c) To help them in becoming responsible citizens in the society.

3) The Context: It is common that youth are extremely vulnerable to bad habits and negative influences particularly during their college days. Moreover, sometimes, different modern media are likely to influence the students negatively and drag them from achieving their goals in life. It would be extremely difficult to bring them back on the track once they fall prey to negative impacts. If not properly guided, bad habits are likely to become greatest hurdles in achieving their aims in life. The possibility of negative influences of the media and other factors has become a cause of concern not only for the parents but also for the teachers and others. The efforts of the institution, the parents and also of the teachers go in vain if the students fall prey to bad habits and negative forces and bad habits. This guidance is indispensable for the students until they reach the stage of mental maturity and intellectual prudence and think themselves to be responsible citizens in the society. The institution considers courteous, responsibility-conscious and habit-free students as its real assets.

4) The Practice: “Quotation of the Day” has been in practice in the college since 2019. Every day, good thoughts are written by designated faculties of the institution on the board which is kept at a place distinctively visible to all, particularly the students, in the college. Such thoughts are religious, philosophical, value-oriented and sometimes general in nature. The thoughts are written both in English and Assamese languages. Everyday students read the thoughts particularly in off periods, intervals or even after completion of lecture hours. In this way efforts are made by the college to encourage students to imbibe cultural and moral values which will go a long way in personality development of the students.

5) Evidence of Success: The practice of “Quotation of the Day” has achieved intended results. The evidence of success of this practice can be summed up as follows.

- a) There are cordial relationships between teachers, students and other stakeholders of the College.
- b) Not a single case of gender-related incident has happened and complaint has been filed so far.
- c) Overall working atmosphere is highly intimate, friendly and worth imitating in the College.
- d) Students are courteous, obedient and abide-by rules and regulations of the college and instructions given by the teachers.
- e) Students have been morally inculcated.

6) Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

a) Problems Encountered:

The institution did not encounter any problem as such in implementing this best practice as it was in the interest of all the stakeholders. In fact, this practice was received by one and all. Many of the students have expressed their gratitude and have implemented such a novel practice in the college. Thoughts to be written are chosen in such a way that they do not hurt any person belonging to any sections of the society. In other words, „thoughts“ are usually general and universal in nature.

b) Resources Required:

The College did not require any additional resource as such for implementing this practice. As the only resources required were „chalk and board“, this practice did not create any resource related problem on the part of the College. Human resources such as selected teachers and students were utilised. For this purpose, the only material resources utilised were chalk and board. Usually, the College managed to implement this practice with the resources available with it.

7) Notes (Optional): The College has the satisfaction of having achieved its aim for having introduced this novel practice. It has the full confidence that its students would become responsible citizens in the society in the days to come and would carry the name and fame of the college to the higher levels
